

Ogden Valley Planning Area Boundary

This map displays the Ogden Valley Planning Area Boundary, which is outlined in yellow. The area is situated in the northern part of Weber County, Utah, and is characterized by a rugged, mountainous terrain. The boundary encompasses several towns and communities, including Pleasant View, North Ogden, Eden, Huntsville, and Mountain Green. The map also shows the location of Pineview Reservoir and the Ogden River. A detailed inset map in the bottom left corner provides a broader view of the region, showing the location of the planning area within the context of the surrounding towns and the state of Utah. The inset map includes labels for Pleasant View, North Ogden, Harrisville, Ogden, South Ogden, Riverdale, Washington Terrace, and Mountain Green. The main map includes labels for Eden, Huntsville, and Mountain Green. The Ogden River is shown flowing through the valley, and the Ogden Valley Planning Area Boundary is clearly marked with a yellow line. The map also shows the location of Pineview Reservoir and the Ogden River. A detailed inset map in the bottom left corner provides a broader view of the region, showing the location of the planning area within the context of the surrounding towns and the state of Utah. The inset map includes labels for Pleasant View, North Ogden, Harrisville, Ogden, South Ogden, Riverdale, Washington Terrace, and Mountain Green. The main map includes labels for Eden, Huntsville, and Mountain Green. The Ogden River is shown flowing through the valley, and the Ogden Valley Planning Area Boundary is clearly marked with a yellow line.

